

Relationship Discovery for Recruiting

BACKGROUND

Recruiting professionals know that a company's greatest asset is its staff of employees, especially when it comes to recruiting. Studies show that only 14% of suitable applicants are searching for a job at any given time. That leaves another 86% as untapped, yet desirable, "passive candidates." How can we locate and attract these individuals without breaking the bank?

FINDING A REFERRAL

It has long been acknowledged that referrals are an excellent way to hire. Countless companies have adopted formal programs for generating internal hiring referrals. Today, approximately 40% of all external hires can be attributed to employee referrals. But how can we uncover these referrals in a timely fashion?

BranchIt's relationship discovery solution lets recruiters benefit from relationships held by their colleagues, providing access to millions of additional passive job candidates.
